Fred has been a member of the Community Choice Credit Union team for more than 12 years. During his time with the Credit Union, he has gained a deep understanding of the personal, mortgage, and commercial lending processes and has built a reputation of being able to communicate complex lending scenarios in a clear and concise manner, much to the delight of his clientele.

Fred earned an associate degree from the School of Business at Ferris State University and has decades of experience in developing and maintaining customer relationships for the long haul. Specializing in medium- to large-sized businesses, Fred is committed to helping business owners prepare for the demands of an ever-changing local and statewide economic climate.

Whether it's minor updates, a major overhaul, or a loan to catapult your business into the future, Fred's experience and expertise can help owners confidently make tough, and informed, decisions as they grow their businesses.

"It's very rewarding working with a group of individuals so dedicated to our members. We have such a great team and I am proud to be part of it."
